Bialik's button mission

EUROPEAN Jewish children were innocent fodder for the murderous hordes comprising the Nazi war machine.

In this wonderful country, Australian Jewish children flourish. They are determined that their brethren will never be forgotten.

To ensure that this occurs Bialik College students are collecting a total of 1.5 million buttons to represent the same amount of young lives stolen during the institutionalised savagery of that hellish regime (AJN 05/08).

We are indeed humbled by their symbolic service to honour those precious children who died alone in hideous circumstances. Mention must be made of the brave man given the title "the British Oskar Schindler", stockbroker clerk, Sir Nicholas Winton, who courageously saved 669 Czechoslovakian Jewish children from deportation to concentration camps. Despite his laudable efforts it was all too few.
