

Book week shame

A NUMBER of issues trouble me about the student dressing up as Hitler for book week; primarily that a teacher gave permission for him to do so. What book, exactly? Mein Kampf?

Also troubling is the fact that this incident was likely highlighted only because the Bialik students and staff were witness to the 'best dressed' award. Had no Jewish kids been in attendance, would staff and students at St Philip's College have thought that this was acceptable? Principal Jeremy Stowe-Lindner's response was indeed an example of calm and graciousness.
