

Earlier this month I had the privilege of speaking at the official opening of Bialik College's Button Project. Ten years in the making, this incredible project has seen school children collect 1.5 million buttons to commemorate each of the children who were killed during the Holocaust. It was a very moving occasion and I was pleased to be joined by local member for Hawthorn John Pesutto, member for Caulfield David Southwick and the member for Melbourne Ports Michael Danby.

Bialik College's Button Project commemorates the 1.5 million children killed during the Holocaust