

HAWTHORN EAST

The mystery gold bolt.

School has a golden secret

THE location of a secret 24-carat gold-plated bolt is just one of the secrets to Bialik College's new primary school facade.

As is tradition with Lamond Contractors, a golden bolt was given to the Hawthorn East school as one of the more than 6800 parts.

Principal Jeremy Stowe-Lindner had the honour of fixing the 24-carat gold-plated bolt in position, the location of which is known by only a select few.

He said the building was one the school should be proud of.

"It's a warm destination for students to go for inspiration and creative reflection."