

SCHOOLYAF

Bialik College's Samantha Worth was one of the eight recipients of the Australian Student Prize.

Australian Student Prize winners

FEDERAL Education Minister Christopher Pyne announced the top 500 secondary students from last year's VCE graduating class from across the country, with eight Jewish students making the cut for Victoria.

The Australian Student Prize recognises national academic excellence and achievement in senior secondary years with three students from the graduating class from Bialik College – Gabrielle Hayman, Maxwell Korman and Samantha Worth – receiving the award.

Michael Alter and Ashlea Gild from Mount Scopus Memorial College were also recipients of the award, along with Leibler Yavneh College's Michelle Wenig, Yeshivah College's Yakir Havin and the King David School's Daniel Kahan.