

Teen musicians live it up

WHEN teenage rapper Doron Losky, aka Lostkeyz, went on the Habonim Dror Shnat program in Israel, he met 19-year-old musician Jake Fehily and the two formed a strong bond through music.

Now Losky, 18, a former Emanuel School student, and Fehily, a former Bialik College student, have teamed up on their first collaborative project titled Live It Up, which is available for free download on SoundCloud.

Fehily - who plays guitar, piano and ukulele - performs regularly in Melbourne. He writes his own acoustic music while Lostkeyz raps hip-hop jams.

Musicians Doron Losky (left) and Jake Fehily. Photo: Ben Lichtman

Listen to their new song Live It Up

Available on the iPad app and e-paper edition