

Book Week festivities

NATIONAL Book Week transformed Jewish schools across Melbourne with fun games, activities and readings to help students increase their love of books.

At Bialik College, the school took on board this year's theme, "Books Light Up Our World", by transforming an area of the library into a darkened cave, complete with tents, cubby-making materials and torches.

The students were then encouraged to curl up inside one of the makeshift tents or cubbies with their torch, find a good book and start reading.
